Just being able to send a text or email to a patient doesn't mean they will read it, let alone take any action on it.

For an effective communication platform, you have to have an automated solution that sends the:

right Message
at the right Time to the right Person.

Redde's communication hub was designed to make your automated texts and email notifications feel personalized.

All our notifications and reminders are fully customizable, easy to track, and quick to adapt to you and your patient's needs.
