

Your chronic patients often need reminders about their prescription refills. Using Redde's texting templates, sending those reminders are now quick and easy.

For emergent issues, the last thing your patients want to do when they're sick is hang around your pharmacy waiting for their prescription.

With Redde, your pharmacy or clinical team can send a text notification to your patients when their prescription is ready to be picked up. If your pharmacy system is able to interface with Redde, we can even automate that process for you.

Is my prescription ready yet?

What prescription?

The one from Hospital.

Nope, nothing yet.

Why is it always me...?
